SCHLEY TO FILE OBJECTIONS.

RESULT OF A CONFERENCE IN THE ADMIRAL'S APARTMENTS.

squests Secretary Long to Withhold Action on Court's Report Until Objections to Its Findings Can Be Filed, and Not to Dissolve the Court Until Action Shall Have Been Taken on Such Objections -The Request Granted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 .- Unless all signs fail. Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley a preparing for another voyage, this time upon the uncertain sea of politics. Having et with disaster in his venture before naval tribunal, Admiral Schley to-day began the preparation of a plan of campaign designed to wipe out the stigma placed upon his personal and professional reputation by the Court of Inquiry comsed of brother officers. Calmly ignoring the fact that the court was unanimous in condemning Admiral Schley on all the important points laid down in the precept of instructions, Gen. Felix Agnus of the Baltimore American, after a consultation with Admiral Schley and the members of his advisory committee, sounded the call to arms in these words: "If this persecution of Admiral Schley continues and the decision of the majority of the Court of Inquiry is allowed to stand approved, it will make Admiral Schley the leading candidate, for the Presidency in That is my personal opinion."

This confirmation of a suspicion that has been prevalent for several months came at the end of a long conference held in Admiral Schley's apartments at the Richmond Hotel. In addition to Admiral Schley and Gen. Agnus, those present were Isador Rayner, Attorney-General of Maryland and senior counsel for Admiral Schley before the Court of Inquiry; Representative Charles Reginald Schirm of Maryland, and M. A. Teague of Baltimore, who assisted Mr. Rayner in the investigation of Admiral Schley's conduct. Mr. Rayner, Gen. Agnus and Mr. Teague came over to Washington from Baltimore to-day to help Admiral Schley decide what should be done to offset the stigma placed upon him by the Court of Inquiry. They met Admiral Schley and Representative Schirm at the Richmond, where a programme for future proceeding

Admiral Schley has been reported as saying that he was satisfied with the verdict of the Court of Inquiry, as it vindicated his honor. It was determined at the conference, however, that more vindication was necessary and the first step was taken in sending a letter to the Secretary of the Navy asking him to withhold action on the court's findings and opinion and not to dissolve the court until Admiral Schley had the opportunity of showing him how far astray Admirals Dewey, Benham and Ramsay had gone in their decision as to Schley's conduct in the war with Spain.

"I have the honor to respectfully request that you withhold your approval of the proceedings of the Court of Inquiry recently held at the navy yard in the city of Washington, of which Admiral George Dewery was President until such time as I shall have an opportunity to file a statement of objections to said finding, and I further request that said court be not dissolved until action shall have been taken on such

Mr. Teague personally handed this letter to Secretary Long and got the assurance that no official action would be taken on the court's report until opportunity had been given Admiral Schley of presenting bill of objections. Mr. Teague told the Secretary that the bill would not be ready before Thursday or Friday, Mr. Long said he would give Admiral Schley Wednesday afternoon present it, and this will bring him a visit to-morrow from Admiral Schley's counsel with a request for more time. Mr. Teague returned to the Richmond and reported what Secretary Long had said; there was more consultation between Admiral Schley and his advisers, and this much of the programme mapped out was made public To appeal to President Roosevelt if Scoretary Long refuses to entertain the objections to the court's conclusions. To have Mr. Schirm introduce a joint resolution in the House of Representatives. declaring the views expressed in the separate statement of Admiral Dewey appended to the court's report to be the sentiment of Congress.

Agnus and his guests also talked over the prospects of obtaining a rehearing by the Dewey court or some other court. They decided that if Secretary Long and President Roosevelt refused to do anything, legal proceedings should be instituted against Mr. Maclayland the Appletons, who published his history. The delegation couldn't arrive at a conclusion as to whether criminal or civil action should be begun, but it was agreed that if civil action were deemed the better, damages of one cent would be asked, just to show the people that Admiral Schley was after of one cent would be asked, just to show the people that Admiral Schley was after vindication and not money.

It seems to be generally understood that it is the Democratic nomination for the Presidency for which Admiral Schley yearns. Some support is given to this idea by the action of Senator Jones of Arkansas, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee in presenting a resoional Committee, in presenting a resolution to-day bestowing "the thanks of Congress and the American people" on Admiral Schley for the destruction of the Spanish fleet.

An effort is to be made to show Admiral Dewey to have been unfair and inconsistent in his statement that Admiral Schley was in absolute control of the naval battle of Santiago. In view of the refusal of Admiral Dewey to permit the introduction of the second of the s evidence showing who was in actual com-mand of the American fleet and his exclu-sion of Admiral Sampson's attorney from the bar of the court, extracts from the official record of the inquiry which make plain the attitude of Admiral Dewey will be laid beforethe Secretary of the Navy. A letter on the subject was received by Secretary Long to-day, but he declined to make it Much amusement has been caused in naval circles over the decision of Admiral Schley and his advisers to have Representa-tive Schirm present a resolution declaring Admiral Dewey's views on the Schley cas to be the sentiment of Congress. As Admiral Dewey joined with Admirals Benham and Ramsey in declaring that Schley's conduct was marked by "vacillation, dilatoriness and lack of enterprise," and that his reports about coal supply and coaling facilities were "inaccurate and misleading," and that he was guilty of nearly everything charged against him, the passage of the resolution will not be wholly distasteful to those who believe the court gaze a just verdict. the court gave a just verdict.

Mr. Bartholdt of Missouri says the findings of the Schley Court of Inquiry have only increased his determination to ask Congress to come to the relief of the Admiral. He will introduce, he says, a bill appropriating $30,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary to reimburse Admiral Winfield Scott Schley for any expense he may have incurred in presenting his reply to the precept of the Navy Department, upon which the Court of Inquiry acted. such a bill will have to go to the Committee on Claims for original consideration. Representative Graff of Illinois is chairman of that committee. He said today that while he felt friendly toward Admiral Schley he would wait until he saw the hill before committing himself for the bill before committing himself for or against it. If the bill should go to the Committee on War Claims Mr. Graff would be as well pleased.

Senator McComas of Maryland, who is leader of the Schley forces in the Senate, announced, after consulting with friends of the Admiral, that they would not ask for a Congressional investigation into the controversy.

"I think I do not mistake public sentiment," said he. "I confidently believe the people of our country approve the finding of Admiral Dewey that Commodore Schley was the senior officer in command and entitled to credit for the victory in the naval battle off Cuba. I believe an investigation by Congress would not have decisive results. It is not advisible. In some results. It is not advisible. In some fashion this Congress should have a chance to vote Admiral Dewey's finding to be, in to vote Admiral Dewey's middle to be, in the judgment of Congress, right or wrong. I want to see such a vote and I hope to see it before the session ends. I will later introduce a practical proposition tending to bring such a vote in the Senate at least. The details I do not now desire to elaborate. Those who with me indorse Admiral Dewey's register about the proposition delibers. opinion should be prudent and deliberate. There is no need of haste. The finding of this board and the division in the board this board and the type and nay vote, with full access to all the testimony on which the finding is based, recording its judgment upon Admiral Dewey's decision."
Friends of Admiral Schley have prepared a draft of a bill to appropriate $10,000 for the purchase of a sword and a medal for that officer. A number of members of Congress have been importuned to introduce the but so far none has been found who is will-

The resolution was passed by a unard-

He said his opinion had been changed by the evidence and he would vote against the resolution for the same reasons. A vote was then taken and only one Councilman of the eight favored the resolution. Four Democrats and three Republicans voted in the negative. Mr. Republicans voted in the negative. Mr Guyton, a Democrat, alone supported it.

SCHLEY RESOLUTION SHELVED. Virginia's Senate Practically Kills a Measure Demanding Vindication.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 16.-The Virginia Senate to-day referred to a committee the resolution passed on Saturday by the House expressing sympathy for Admiral Schley. This is equivalent to killing the measure, for it will never be heard from any more. Senator Barksdale in speaking against the resolution characterized it as "unseemly, undignified and out of order," while Senator Keezell declared that it was all "buncombe."

The resolution, as adopted by the House, expressed the indignation of the body at the verdict of the Schley Court of Inquiry, and it provided for the appointment of a committee to call upon the representatives of Virginia in Congress to use all possible effort to secure justice for Schley.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

The Vest Resolution in Regard to Legislation Against Anarchy Is Adopted. WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 .- In accordance with the agreement made on Friday the Senate met at 11 o'clock to-day. After the transaction of routine morning business messages were received from the President as follows:

Transmitting two franchises granted to railroad companies by the Council of Porto Rico, which will require the approval of Congress.

Transmitting the report of receipts and disbursements of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company. Transmitting a petition by Senor Don

F. Gamba and other citizens of Cuba, asking the enactment of a law giving commercial reciprocity between the United States and Cuba. Transmitting the claim of William Hardeman, a British subject, for damages done his property at Siboney, Cuba, during the Spanish war. A resolution was offered by Mr. Nelson (Rep., Minn.), requesting the President, if not incompatible with the public interests, to send to the Senate a copy of the report of Ambassador Choate relative to certain discriminating charges imposed by the London Dock Company on American flour. It was agreed to.

The resolution heretofore offered by Mr.
Vest (Dem., Mo.), instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire and report as to the prevention and punishment of anarchism, was laid before the Senate and pedient to amend the Constitution so as to give Congress such power; also to inquire and report what amendments are necessary to the naturalization laws to prevent Anarchists coming to the United States and becoming citizens; and as to the power and propriety of establishing a penal colony for the confinement of convicted Anarchists.

The resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Clapp (Rep., Minn.) for open discussion on the Isthmian Canal treaty was laid before the Senate. Mr. Clapp disclaimed the idea of having offered the resolution as a joke. He was quite serious in offering it. The people regarded executive sessions largely in the light of a farce. They believed that they had the right to the knowledge of what took place in executive sessions. Mr. Mason (Rep., Ill.) began a speech against executive sessions as "an ancient barnacle," but was interrupted by Mr. Money (Dem., Miss.) who insisted that the question could not be discussed in open mittee on Rules, and thereupon, at 12:15, the Senate went into executive session on the Isthmian Canal treaty.

At 6:15 P. M., the doors were reopened, the House resolution announcing the death of Representative Brosius of Pennsylvania was adopted, and then as a further mark journed until to-morrow.

SENATE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

MEETS TO-DAY TO PASS UPON THE REVISED COMMITTEE LIST.

The Chairmen of the Most Important Committees-Caucus Not Likely to Decide on a Programme of Legislation-The Leaders Want a Short Business Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 .- A caucus of Republican Senators will be held to-morrow morning before the Senate meets to finally pass upon the revised committee list which has been arranged by the Committee on Committees. As the Senate chairmanships are decided by the inflexible rule of seniority of service, it is easy to figure out who will get the important vacant chairmanships. Senator Cullom of Illinois will succeed the late C. K. Davis of Minnesota as chairman of Foreign Relations, Stewart of Nevada will go to the head of the Indian Affairs Committee, Elkins of West Virginia will succeed Cullom as chairman of Interstate Commerce, Dolliver of Iowa will get Pacific Railroads, Mason of Illinois will succeed Wolcott of Colorado as chairman of Post Offices and Post Roads, Burrows of Michigan will take Privileges and Elections as the successor of Chandler of New Hampshire, and so on through the list of important committees.

All of the old Senators will move up a peg toward the chairmanship of the various committees on which they servel to make room at the foot of the list for their new colleagues. The most interest-, ing change to be reported to the caucus is the selection of Senator Deboe of Kentucky to be chairman of the committee to establish the University of the United States in the place of Wellington of Maryland, who deserted his party and has been refused house room by the Democrats. He will retain his membership as a Republican on the other committees of which he has been a member, and this will not disturb their political complexion.

It is not likely that an attempt will be made at to-morrow's caucus to agree upon a programme of legislation for the session. This question has been discussed informally, but nothing definite will be arranged unti after the holiday recess. The House will pass on Wednesday the Philippines tariff bill. It will go to the Senate on Thursday and be referred to the Committee on Philipof which Senator Lodge is chairman pines, of which Senator Lodge is chairman Both Houses will then adjourn until Jan. 6. The leaders in both the Senate and House have made up their minds that so far as they can control the situation, the session shall be a short, business-like and economical one. A deluge of bills has been introduced in both houses, but a very small proportion will ever get beyond the stage of the first reading. Notwithstanding the large and growing treasury surplus, some of the most influential of the Republican Senators are of the opinion that eternal vigilance will be necessary to prevent it from being turned into a deficit by the eagerness of the Representatives of the various States to open the pork barrel and distribute the Chairman Payne of the Ways and Means Committee says he will after a while bring in a bill abolishing the special war taxes as far as it is necessary to get rid of the surplus, but members of the Senate Finance Committee are not satisfied that there will be any surplus to get rid of by the time the session is well under way. They are rather inclined to think, therefore, that there will be no legislation in the way of removing or reducing Internal Revenue taxes. The leaders are determined to have just as little legislation as possible on any subject, and to bring the session to a close as soon a possible after the appro-priation bills and other important measures that cannot be postponed are disposed of. It seems to be the consensus of opinion now among the best informed Senators and Representatives that the Canal Construc-tion bill will follow the ratification of the treaty and that some sort of a Ship Subsidy bill will also become a law. The joint committee of Senators and Representa-tives appointed to prepare a bill providing money for the irrigation of arid lands have money for the frigation of and tands have a measure about ready to be presented. This bill is bound to stir up a long and stub-born contest, as some of the most influen-tial men in both Houses regard it as a shining example of that kind of paternalism that should be nipped in the lud. The friends of the frrigation plan have organized a thorough campaign in its behalf, and as they can command the support of the votes of a large number of Senators and Representatives from various States, they Representatives from various States, they will exert a strong influence and make it very difficult to defeat their bill.

ART MUSEUM'S NEW WING OPEN. Has 2,200 Electric Lights-Trustees

Mr. Hunt Inspect It. The new entrance and wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art at Fifth avenue and Seventy-ninth street was open for public inspection for the first time last night it being desired to test the electric lighting system.

The addition just completed is in the form of a grand main entrance to the entire scheme of buildings which it is proposed to build and which, when completed, will extend from Seventy-ninth to Eightyfifth streets. The original building will be the centre of this scheme. The part just completed has taken over two years to build and cost $1,000,000. The system of electric lights, which is on a grand scale, also cost $40,000.

Richard Hunt was the architect and he also designed the columns supporting th lights in order that they should be in har-mony with the building. The outer doors on Fifth avenue open into a grand hall, 54 feet wide and 103 feet long, at the end of which are two smaller halls or galleries. Around the larger hall is a gallery and oppo-

The new part is lighted with 2,200 lights, these in the three domes above the larger hall being so powerful as to make a glow which can be seen for many blocks as one approaches the museum. While the new part is designed as a grand entrance rather than an exhibition hall it is intended to fill the main hall and galleries with sculpture and Gen. di Cesnola will shortly begin fill the main hall and galleries with sculpture and Gen. di Cesnola will shortly begin the work of superintending the placing of the statuary.
